Here are some photos from our weekly knitting group. Our parents have been super busy creating scarfs and right now they are learning how to knit a children sweater.

Hello Broadway families,

Happy Holidays and best wishes for the New Year! 2010 is already coming to an end and this year is passing by so quickly. December will be a very short and busy month for us at Broadway Center. We will have a few walking field trips to see holiday decorations and observe ice skaters at the Embacadero ice rink. Children will be busy learning about different holiday celebrations and will make a lot of holiday crafts to brighten up our classrooms. As you all know, this year we will have our Winter Celebration on December 17th at Broadway center. There will be parties in each classroom this year. This is not a regular school day. Here is the schedule for December 17th: AM class celebration starts at 10am. PM class celebration starts at 12pm. Both full day classes will start their celebration at 10:30am.

Please come on time so you do not miss out when the children are singing and Santa arrives to give out presents for our students which were generously donated by two law firms in San Francisco. Don't forget to bring your camera to catch the joyful moment. I would like to ask you not to unwrap the presents at school. You can do that at home.

We have given the law firms three choices per child for a gift. Some lawyers might buy one gift, others might buy two or even three. It depends on their generosity. Please do not compare box sizes and get upset. Remember this is the holiday season and these are donations. We simply have to say: Thank you! After our celebrations, the teachers need your help in cleaning up the classrooms. It is easily done when many hands help out.

School will resume on Monday, January 3rd 2011.
See you in 2011!!!!

This gave her a lot of experience and the opportunity to interact with kids. She realized how much she enjoyed being with children and how good the program was.
